

STRATEGIC ENTREPRENEURSHIP JOURNAL
Call for Special Issue Proposal Submissions

Submission Due Date: June 15, 2019

The Strategic Entrepreneurship Journal invites proposal submissions for a Special Issue of the journal. We encourage proposals that seek to (re-)shape important research conversations in our field, or open up entirely new ones. The proposal document should include the following:

1. Potential guest editors and their CVs (as well as a link to their websites, if available).
2. Proposed special issue theme.
3. Description of theme (no more than one page):
 - a. Relevance and importance to the SEJ readership.
 - b. Potential research questions.
 - c. How this (re-)shapes important research conversations, or opens up new ones.
 - d. Plan of distribution for the Call for Papers.

The co-editors of the journal will review the proposal submissions after the June 15 deadline, and invite a subset of these for further consideration and development of the Call for Papers. The final evaluation of each SI proposal will take into consideration criteria regarding the theme (i.e., fit with SEJ topical domains and priorities, as well as breadth and scope of the target audience) and the SI editorial team (i.e., editorial experience, capabilities and reputation).

By way of background, here are the SEJ Special Issues that are currently in production or have been published over the past 5 years:
